

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Paying the Piper.

The piper sat by the river, his tireless pipe in his hand, But ere the sun set and the white stars met,
He scratched with a stick on the sand.
"My bills are due," quoth the piper, "and now they pay," quoth he,
"Who danced and played from the sun into shade
Now render account to me."

"Here is one for a year," quoth the piper,
A year of love's delight;
A heart that is dead and a soul unweaned
I shall cancel a debt so true!
"I need not dun," quoth the piper—and laughed, but nobody heard, A chill in the air, and a shudder somewhere—
"They will render without one word."

"And this for my maddest playing"—oh, he wrote as he chuckled and laughed—
"I will make my debt an immortal soul;
They shall drain where they only quaffed!"
So, he did his sum in addition, till the rose and the star had met,
But although he tried to thrust it aside,
One name lay unchallenged yet.

Complacently, knave and sinner, apportioned he each his due,
But when it was over there remained one more,
And its pattern the piper knew,
"Rascal or thief," mused the piper, "I play for their dancing and smile, They have their way for a little day, I have mine after a while."

"I can score each knave," quoth the piper,
In life's ill-sorted school,
For they take and they take their greed to slake.

But I am no match for the fool!
For he pays as he goes, frowning the piper, "pain, laughter, passion of fear!"
He claims no self for life for himself,
But gives his all without tears.

"The rest of my dancers laugh not, and I hold each one as a fool, But he pays as he goes, be it rapture or woes,
And I have no bill for the fool!"

He loves and he lives, frowning the piper,
"and such a poor returns suffice For my price 'Volla le diable!' and gives himself as the price!"
Then, with eagerness and reluctance, as the star sank into the pool,
The piper made claim to each separate

But recited in full for the fool.

At Country Homes.

Mrs. Claude A. Swanson is paying a short visit to her country home, "Eldon," near Chatham, Va., having taken advantage of the Governor's absence at the University of Virginia, where she delivered an address in the public hall yesterday, April 19th, when Founder's Day was celebrated at the University.

Governor Swanson is to be initiated into the Delta Chi Law Fraternity before his return.

Mrs. Swanson is a great lover of flowers.
She has a garden full of them at Eldon, and she is very partial to country life, her stay there at this season of the year will afford her great enjoyment.

Sultana Cotillon.

Richmond girls at the University of Virginia enjoyed immensely the "Sultana cotillon," given Tuesday evening last by the Ell Bananas of the University of Virginia in Foyersweater gymnasium.
The girls wore elaborate costumes of Japanese lanterns lighted by electricity; Japanese parasols and panels;
a great bunch of yellow bananas suspended from a Japanese umbrella in the center of the room and a Japanese hostess, rendered the decorations of the ball-room as attractive as they were unique.

The dancing programmes for the girls were included in tan leather card cases, with the Sultan's head in blue and gold, and the date inscribed in gilt letters.
The men had white engraved cards.

Mr. Milton Elliott, of Norfolk, Va., led the cotillon with Miss Lucy Hamilton Cooke, of the University. Miss Cooke wore white silk net over pink satin, trimmed in tiny ruffles edged with blue and pink satin ribbon, a duchesse lace bertha and a deep fringe of pale blue chiffon. All the figures were effective, that called "the Japanese," in which the Ells wore Japanese costumes and marched around the ball-room, singing Japanese songs, was especially effective.

The dancers were Miss Epthman, with Mr. L. A. Bailey; Miss Brent Witt, with Mr. L. G. Christian; Miss Katherine Newhill, with Mr. B. H. Myers; Miss Josephine Sullivan, with Mr. H. M. Smith; Miss Nellie Hamilton, with Dr. Gordon Wilkes; Miss Sophie White, with Mr.
Thomas P. Bryan; Miss Frances Hobson, with Mr. William Gaunt; Miss Nancy Waddell, with Mr. C. M. Smith; Miss Elizabeth Frazier, with Mr. William Grant; Miss Avia Grant, with Mr. C. M.
Smith; Miss Flora Mason, with Mr.
Charles Watkins; Miss Louise Atkins, with Mr. Samuel Woods; Mr. Addison Rennolds, with Miss Elliott.

Thursday's Weddings.

An elegant forenoon wedding of Thursday, April 19th, was celebrated at eleven o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Alexander Cameron, No. 59 East Franklin Street, when their daughter, Flora Macdonald Cameron, was married to Mr.
George Zinn, son of Mrs. William DuPont, of Montpelier, Orange county, Va.
The floral decorations at the house were as elaborate and profuse as they were artistic and beautiful. The bride was through an aisle of green, formed by palms and ferns. Within, the halls, doorways and parlors were festooned with Southern smilax, caught with great bunches of Easter lilies. The altar, arranged in the front drawing room, had a massing of the lilies against the green of palms.

Altar candles on white pedestals were wreathed with green, and ropes of smilax were held with clusters of lilies.

NO WORDS WASTED

A Swift Transformation Briefly Described.

About food, the following brief but emphatic letter from a Georgia woman goes straight to the point and is convincing:
"My frequent attacks of indigestion and palpitation of the heart culminated 3 years ago in a sudden and desperate illness, from which I arose enfeebled in mind and body. The doctor advised me to live on cereals, but none of them agreed with me until I tried Grape-Nuts food and Postum Coffee. The more I used of them the more I felt convinced that they were just what I needed, and in a short time they made a different woman of me. My stomach and heart troubles were cured by magic, and my mind was restored and is as clear as it ever was."
"I gained flesh and strength so rapidly that my friends were astonished. Postum and Grape-Nuts have benefited me so greatly that I am glad to bear this testimony."

Creek, Mich.

OPPORTUNITY.

By WALTER MALONE.

Walter Malone is a poet and a lawyer of Memphis, Tenn. He was born in De Soto county, Miss., February 1888. He is a judge, Second Circuit Court, Shelby county, Tenn., since March 23, 1903. He has written several books of verse. His poem given below is evidently inspired by and is an answer to J. Edgar's famous sonnet having the same title, already published in this series.

THEY do me wrong who say I come no more When once I kneel and fall to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door,
And bid you wake, and rise to fight and win.

Well not for precious chances passed away, Weep not for golden ages on the wane!
Each night I burn the records of the day;
At sunrise every soul is born again.

Laugh like a boy at splendours that have sped,
To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb;
My judgments seal the dead past with its dead,
But never blind a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep;
I lend my arm to all who say, "I can!"
No shamefaced encounter ever sank so deep,
But yet might rise and be again a man!

Dost thou behold thy lost youth all aglance?
Dost reel from righteous retribution's blow?
Then turn from bloated archives of the past And find the future's pages white as snow.

Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from thy spell; Art thou a slayer? Slins may be forgiven;
Each morning gives thee wings to flee from hell, Each night a star to guide thy feet to heaven!

This series began in The Times-Dispatch Sunday, Oct. 11, 1903. One is published each day.

The broad closed-in portico, leading from the parlors and into the dining room, was convayed with white, as were the rooms of the entire lower suite thrown open. It was hung with Oriental draperies. Here, touches of color in the red of American Beauties, differentiated this apartment as well as the main hall, from the Easter idea of white and green, prevailing elsewhere.

In the dining-room the delicate and exquisite ornamentation of the bride's table, done by Mann & Brown, caught the eye at once. The chandelier was lightly veiled with maiden-hair fern. The center piece was of lilies of the valley, on placques was of lilies of the valley, on which were laid true lover's knots of white gauze ribbon. Suspended by white silk streamers from the chandelier, were savoury bouquets, resting beside each cover. Thillow's orchestra, stationed in the hall, played many beautiful march and other appropriate airs.

The bride came in with her father, Alexander Cameron. She wore white chiffon over satin, trimmed with point lace. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower of lilies of the valley. She was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Dr. John Sedgewick Andrews, of Delaware.
The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Geoffrey Brindley, of St.
Paul's Episcopal School, Concord, N. H., and the Rev. Dr. Russell Cecil, of Second Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Va.

Miss Mary Cameron and Miss Janet Cameron, sisters of the bride, were maids of honor. They were gowned in blue tulle, with touches of pink, and laid white hats with pink plumes. Their flowers were pink roses.

After the ceremony, guests were seated at small tables placed throughout the rooms, and a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served by the famous Washington caterer, Rauscher.

Mrs. Cameron, always a charming hostess, was very handsome in a lovely toilet of champagne tulle, embroidered in silver, and garnished in duchesse lace.

Mrs. William DuPont, the groom's mother, wore a very effective gown of Irish point lace, and Mrs. Lyman Gilbert, of Harrisburg, Pa., remembered in Richmond as Miss Helen Cameron, had on white pompadour silk, with gold embroidery.
Other guests from a distance were:
Mrs. William DuPont, of Orange county;
Mrs. Theodore Rogers, of Washington, Del.; Mrs. Bradford, of Washington, Md.; Mrs. Cameron, of Port Henry, N. Y.; Mr. Oglesby Paul, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bland, of Baltimore; Mrs. Andrews, of Orange, Va.; Miss Elaine DuPont Irving, and Mr. Louis Irving, of Irvington, N. Y.; Mr.
Wallace Lanahan, of Baltimore; Mr. Dan Sattwell, of Boston; Mr. F. M. Dick, of New York; Mr. E. L. Goss, of Orange, Va.; Mr. Leo Goss, of Berkshire, England.

Mrs. Zinn is the granddaughter of the late Barton Haxall and his wife, Octavia Robinson, prominent in Richmond social life of a former generation.
Mr. Haxall's country home was located in the same section of the State, the Piedmont region, as Cameron Lodge, with other members of her family.

After her wedding trip she will reside at "Gaston Hall," Mr. Zinn's fine new home in Orange county.

Easter Egg Hunt.
The following account of a Monday afternoon egg hunt comes from Brydell, Va. It says:

Easter Monday was a very merry day in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Jones, of Brydell, Va., when their six bright daughters, Edith, Martha, Anna, Susie, Gertrude and Blanche entertained a group of young friends from 1:30 to 4:30 P. M.

The afternoon was spent in various amusements. First the happy crowd had, a merry hour hunting for colored eggs, securely hidden among the shrubbery.
A prize was offered to the one who found the greatest number of eggs. This was won by a bright-eyed little fellow of nine years, Master Wilfred Maddux. The "booby prize" was awarded to Misses Pauline Maddux and Sadie Hurt, who were among the very merriest and busiest of the company, but found not a single egg.

After the eggs were hunted out, another hour was spent in all trying to pin a trail on the still "unmannered Maud," while the girls, who were wonderfully well, made their music thoroughly enjoyed.

Among those who helped to make the young folks have a good time were Mrs.
R. S. Brydell and Mrs. J. W. Maddux, who gave valuable assistance in entertaining the children.

Every one testified to having had a delightful time, and all were sorry when the afternoon had come to an end.
